Friday's Hail Storm Brings Great Damage In District To North

Hail Stones As Large As Golf Balls Fall On Fields North Of Town Causing Great Damage--Many Windows Broken In The Village

Friday, August 18 was an ill day for this district when a hail storm which lasted less than five minutes went through north of town killing all in its path.

About six o'clock last Friday after a hot sultry day a high wind came up, followed by a hail storm which started north of Scottfield going east and took a path in its path to the Saskatchewan border.

A great loss was suffered in this district as most farmers intended to start combining or binding in a few days, most of them just having completed repairing their machinery for the seasons run.

Chinook appeared to be on the south side of the storm as the farmers south of town reported not enough hail to do any damage. Hail stones as large as golf balls littered the streets after it had passed until a light shower of rain which followed had melted them.

Upon examination of their buildings after the storm a great many found a number of their windows cracked and broken and in some cases the roofs torn off. Such was the plight of the Chinook Hotel, which reported seventeen windows broken and half of the roof ripped up.

Some of the farmers north of the village still hope to get a few bushels of grain from a round low spots which at the time of the storm was still to green and wasn't completely destroyed.

Reich Clergy In Germany Oppose Oath

German Pastors Rebel Against Swearing Obedience to Hitler

BERLIN, Aug. 10. — (A. P.) — Many clergymen are refusing to swear against fealty to Hitler, declaring the German ruler seeks to place himself above God and the church.

A law requiring churchmen to take an oath of "fidelity and obedience" to Hitler is one of several enacted yesterday by the national synod. It is part of the Nazi program for a unified Protestant church.

Representatives of the Bavarian Württemberg and Hanover state churches protest passage of the law. Many of them said flatly to day they would not take the oath.

Some 800 clergymen already are under suspension for opposition to the chancellor, and his church lieutenant, Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller. Those who refuse to take the oath face the same fate, Mueller has absolute authority over church matters.

The opposition maintains the oath mixes things spiritual and temporal and makes it possible for Mueller to castigate every refusal to obey his orders as disobedience to Germany's dictator, Hitler.

TOURNAMENT IS WON BY CHINOOK --GATE IS SLIM

Chinook Produces a Snappy Nine to Win Finals Here Wednesday

Although declared to be somewhat of a financial flop, the ball tournament staged here yesterday afternoon did attract a fairly enthusiastic crowd and a good brand of ball was displayed.

First Game

The first game was between Craigmyle and Hanna, resulting in a win for the latter, 9-1. Batteries—Ralsbeck and Geissinger for Craigmyle; James and Doyle for Hanna.

Hanna started in the first inning and gave notice to Ralsbeck that he was in for some pounding. Doyle clouted the first ball over the race track, scoring Kennedy. James pitched good ball throughout the entire seven innings and was ably supported by his team mates, pulling off two sparkling double plays.

Drumheller vs Chinook

The second game of four-innings was a real battle between Drumheller and Chinook. Homer Butts came with the cream of the east country and when they found their batting eye. Drumheller paraded several pitchers to the mound. Every man on the Chinook line-up was a heavy hitter and the pitcher, Wiss, sailed along to a heavy 13-4 win.

Chinook vs Hanna

The final game was the best and closest of the day. The fans saw a good game and Chinook presented the best team seen in action this year and were full value for their 7-3 win. Hanna held the top rung for four innings, leading 3-1, Chinook unleashing a spell of hitting, aided with two costly errors, which netted them four runs, and with Jackson pitching better ball as the game proceeded, held Hanna down. James pitched a fine game, appearing as an iron man, and it was through no fault of his that Hanna took the short end of the score. The support he was given was very spotty, which contributed largely to Hanna's defeat.

W. K. McCoy announces that the tournament's financial loss will make it necessary to appeal to the local fans for some assistance. Umpires, Art Benson, Jesse Bloom and Rev. Goebels. —The Hanna Herald

Baptists Urge Ballot On War In 40 Nations

BERLIN, Aug. 9. —The World Baptist Congress Wednesday gave its approval in vigorous applause to a proposal that a world-wide plebiscite be held in 40 countries to determine whether the people want to fight another war.

The suggestion was made by the Rev. Harold Camp of Oakland Calif., who said the Briand Kellogg pact should be made the basis of such a vote, all nations which adhered to it taking part.

"We shall do our duty in Germany to bring about an improved feeling," said Harry Fielder speaking on behalf of German Baptists.

This Changing World

Probably no period of recorded history can show such a succession of surprising and kaleidoscopic changes, political and economic, as that through which we are passing. The vast complex of peoples and nations comprising the civilized world to-day is in a state of uniformly unstable equilibrium—an equilibrium disturbed from time to time by a variety of insurances both major and minor. So frequent are they, so unexpected their character, so far-reaching their effects, that few even of the great among the prophets dare risk portraying the face of things to come in the immediate future. They feel safer in making (and indeed they prefer to make) their predictions at long range, and to envision a world more remote in time than that which is likely to concern much the present much-abused generation.

The political and economic changes which occurred during the storm years of 1914-18, the revolutionary upheavals which wrecked dynasties and brought new state forms into being, probably were larger in scale. But they were not so numerous nor, for that matter, did they strike with ruder shock than those of more recent occurrence. The protruded strain of the war itself served to dull and deaden the sensitivities of the people directly subjected to it, and, more injured to shock, they were inclined to lump all the catastrophes into one—the War. They were inclined, too, to the belief that, once peace were restored, the world would quickly revert to the pre-war basis and settle anew to the ordered routine which seemed so stable until the unexpected happened at Sarajevo.

The world, however, has refused to settle down, refused to revert to the former status. The well-ordered machine which has made this seem the best of all possible worlds until the summer of 1914, has never regained its old momentum. The people hunger for peace and a chance to routine their existence. They wish to remodel the new world on something like the old lines. But peace is denied them—peace, security and comfort, the comfort which comes from an assured livelihood. All is unrest. They feel they sit upon a volcano about to erupt, and nerves agitated by uncertainties make them the more susceptible to the recurrent shocks which evidence the turmoil beneath. Thus the crises of the depression appear more menacing than those which occurred during war-time which stunned, rather than agitated.

Recent events in Austria and Germany are symptomatic of the times. The world looks on with anxiety while these two nations writhen in their efforts to evolve a state form which can bring harmony and happiness to their peoples. Equally significant to the world at large, however, are the experiments being tried in the United States and in Great Britain to evolve a new economy which will give work to the workless and restore the prosperity both, in the past, have enjoyed. Both experiments involve complete revolutions in the national economic life of those countries, but few would agree that either yet had found the solution within itself.

It is unnecessary to enumerate the many changes during the period of depression. Books on political and economic subjects become obsolete in a day. Anyone who reads knows that. Take, for example, the following quotation from a book which reached shelves of public libraries in Western Canada little more than a year ago:

"Nobody doubts, for instance, that America will overcome the present difficulties once it gets a grip on itself. France is sitting comfortably, and even Germany is held to have a fair chance. . . . But the issue is more doubtful for Great Britain because her malady seems more fundamental. Already, the British Empire has fallen from its former high estate."

The picture has been entirely reversed since then. Scarcely a statement in the quotation stands to-day—and that is but a sample of the dangers besetting the would-be prophet in this dynamic, fluid world. Apparently, the unstable condition will continue until every nostrum and every alleged cure-all has been tried and tried in vain. Then, perchance, a world on the verge of ruin will realize that it is not so much the medicine that is wrong as the diagnosis. Indeed, were international enmity replaced by international amity almost any kind of political or economic medicine might cure remaining ills.

Governor-General Is Patron To Junior Farm Clubs

Club members and everyone associated with club work for farm boys and girls will sincerely appreciate the great honor that has been accorded to the junior farm club movement by His Excellency the Governor-General, the Earl of Bessborough, who has extended his patronage to the Canadian Council on Boys' and Girls' Club Work.

The recognition that His Excellency has thus given to the value of junior club work in Canada should encourage greater activity on the part of every club member and stimulate a deeper sense of the opportunities that are provided in this form of agricultural extension.

Criminals Steal Arms

1,027 Guns Taken From U.S. Armories Since 1932

The underworld has stolen 1,027 guns—ten of them machine-guns—and 23,110 rounds of ammunition from national guard armories in 29 states since January 1, 1932. William Stanley, acting United States attorney-general, gave the information.

At the same time he revealed the department of justice has asked the war department to prevail upon state governors to end these thefts. Stanley reminded that the federal machine-gun law which took effect recently, is intended to close fire-arms channels to the criminal.

Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic Cramps and Stomach Pains

Prompt treatment with Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in such cases relieves the pains, checks the looseness of the bowels, and thus does away with the suffering, the weakness, and oftentimes the collapse associated with attacks of this kind.

It does this by checking the too frequent and irritating stools, settling the stomach, and bringing up the weakened system, thus making it a remedy for the treatment of bowel complaints of both young and old.

Seeking New Height Record

Wiley Post Will Use Flying Suit He Invented

With a specially constructed flying suit of his own invention, Wiley Post, world-circler, will soon take off in an attempt to better the present altitude record of 47,392 feet.

His well-known companion, the "Winnie Mae", a ship almost as famous as Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis", has been remodelled with the addition of a new 420-horse power motor and two superchargers so that his speed is expected to be increased to 350 miles per hour at ordinary altitudes, and seemingly impossible velocities in the stratosphere where air resistance approaches "nil".

Post's flight is not primarily for purposes of breaking records, but to test his airsuit, he has announced.

"Engineers have always said if we had a variable pitch propeller and a super-charged motor we could fly in any altitude if the body could function normally," Post explained. "Well, we have the propellers and the superchargers and I believe this suit will conquer the last obstacle."

The suit consists of rubberized fabric trousers covering the entire trunk of the body up to the shoulders and a rubber top piece capped by an aluminum head gear. The wearer will get air through the supercharger, which also supplies the motor. The suit, of course, is airtight.

Post hopes to get enough information in his initial test to aid him in winning the $50,000 London-to-Australia derby next October.

Rock Slide At Niagara

Huge Chunk Weighing Thirty Million Pounds Goes Over The Falls

A gigantic pile of rock estimated to weigh 30,000,000 pounds rose above the water in Niagara gorge recently, visible evidence of the second major rock slide from Horseshoe Falls since 1831.

Water was flowing over what was dry rock as sightseers thronged to the shore of Goat Island in an effort to obtain a view of the jagged, saw-like rim of the falls and the huge pile beneath it. But mist obscured the view, shrouding the secret of Nature's workings.

The huge chunk fell from the cataract with a deafening roar that seemed to still the sound of water pouring over the precipice. The rock landed in the gorge, sending a spout of water more than 200 feet into the air.

The lip of one of Canada's great wonders lifted as if from a charge of dynamite, heaved, groaned and slid away with a roar. Where there was only a dribble of water a huge stream began to pour.

Niagara Falls, in its recent break, demonstrated a geological belief that this scenic wonder is only the last of the American Niagaras, and like the others, is headed towards extinction within perhaps 20,000 years.

Brazil is chiefly an agricultural country and the diversity of climate facilities the cultivation of practically every agricultural product. Nevertheless, Canada in the fiscal year 1933-34 exported $327,511 worth of agricultural and vegetable products to Brazil, including wheat and showing an increase of $202,108 on the preceding year.

"The British Dominions Emigration Society was founded in 1882 by Prebendary Kitchin. During these 52 years over 37,000 have been assisted to emigrate, and the feature of the work I am most proud of is that we have never charged one cent interest on the money advanced. It was not surprising therefore, though most gratifying to our society, to receive a commendatory letter from your Prime Minister, the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, paying warm tribute to our work upon the occasion of our 50th anniversary. At the present time our work is almost entirely confined to the re-union of British families."

The society enjoys the high presidency of H.R.H. Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll, and a list of distinguished vice-presidents which includes The Most Noble the Marquess of Salisbury, K.G., G.C.V.O.; The

"It has been found by our representatives in Canada," Mr. Culver said, "that large numbers of men go out, leaving their wives and families behind, with every hope and good intention of soon being able to send for them. They make good in the various cities and towns throughout Canada, but very quickly find that after keeping themselves and sending money home to help to keep their wives and families in Britain, it is utterly impossible for them to save the amount required to bring their wives and families out. One of two things is then bound to happen—either the men have to throw up their good permanent work in Canada and return to the Old Country to swell the ranks of the unemployed there, or they have to receive assistance towards the cost of the transportation of their wives and families. We are very glad indeed to be able to take up this work, which we feel is of considerable importance."

Makes "Color-Music"

Attachment For Piano Invented By English Engineer

I. Shamah, English electrical engineer, has invented an apparatus for making "color-music" which may be used in any home as an attachment to a piano. By means of this, a drawing room may be flooded with diffusing lights which will automatically react in colors to whatever tune is played. He has so graded the vibrations of a piano in proportion to each other that each note has its own exact shade, so that it will be possible for instance, to play "God Save the King" in a combination of shades varying between red, white and blue; the "Blue Danube" in green and blue, or the "Moonlight Sonata" in yellow and silver. Another invention by Mr. Shamah enables one to "feel" music. You hold two metal tubes, and when a tune is played you feel the rhythm of it like a beating pulse, which send a pleasant tingling sensation up the arms.

Eighty-Three Year-Old Scientist Working On Improvements

Sir John Ambrose Fleming, a celebrated scientist who has had a good deal to do with the development of telephones, is the inventor of the thermionic valve—which made wireless telegraphy possible. "In a few years' time," he said the other day, "we shall probably chuckle over the recollection of what telephones were like in 1934. Everybody knows that the telephone is in its infancy; everybody knows that it can be improved enormously. What form will that improvement take? I am a scientist, not a prophet. The telephone may be a little box that you can carry in your pocket. It may become more elaborate than it is today. I do not choose to prophesy. I'm certainly not going to tell you on what lines I am working now to improve the telephone." Sir John Fleming is 83, and a very busy 83.

Making The Roads Safe

British Courts Do Not Handle Reckless Drivers Easily

British courts are ruthless with motorists who carelessly endanger the lives of others. Kaye Don is under sentence on this account, and another example is to hand in the sentence of a girl, recommended to mercy by the jury and therefore getting off with half the term the judge had intended to impose, sent to jail for six months for manslaughter. She said she had been ill and took some food to relieve the pain, and had had three bottles of beer as well as the food. Her driver's license was revoked and she was disqualified for life from driving. That is the way to make the roads safe.—Hamilton Herald.

The fiftieth anniversary of the first motor-cycle is to be celebrated this year; a monument is to be erected to Gottlieb Daimler, in Schorndorf, Germany. Working behind the shutters of a shop in Stuttgart, Daimler and Wilhelm Maybach made the first motor-cycle, and in the same year the first motor-boat was launched in the river Neckar, a tributary of the Rhine. Believing the inventors were manufacturing counterfeit money, the police raided their workshop, and as there was considerable public fear of petrol, wires mounted on porcelain insulators were placed around the premises to give the impression that the motive power was electricity. In the following year the first "horseless" carriage left the shop. It was an ordinary horse-drawn carriage with metal tires in which one cylinder of 1½ horsepower was mounted. It achieved a speed of eleven miles an hour.

Now, before the sermon, the sexton pushes the pulpit on its lines to the centre of the church, and after the sermon it is pushed back again.

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt and Peter Anson, young and in love, marry secretly, deciding to live their own lives apart until Peter is able to provide for her. Peter is a young, struggling sculptor trying to win a competition for a scholarship abroad and Camilla is the adopted daughter of a wealthy family. She is not to inherit money when she comes of age and so is studying commercial art in the hope of landing an agency job. Others in the story are Avis Werth, another wealthy girl who is trying to win Peter. Sylvia Todd, Peter's model, and Gus Matson, his former roommate with whom he has quarrelled. After a party at an exclusive club, when the rest of the members of the party go to a certain hotel, the guests, Peter and Camilla slip off to the beach by themselves and fall asleep on the sand. When they awake it is early morning and Avis and another boy are standing near them. This makes it necessary for Camilla to announce before the party that she and Peter are married. Camilla refuses Peter to accept some of her earnings to help him along, but Peter refuses and they quarrel. After Camilla has gone from the studio, Avis Werth calls and persuades Peter to accept a loan of $1,000. Peter finishes his exhibit and asks Avis and Camilla for suggestions as to a name for it. Camilla suggests "Baker Youth" and Avis "Inspiration." Peter adopts the latter title and Camilla, heartily, goes to Peter's studio for quiet and to think. Peter and Avis follow later, and as the lights are turned on, see the statue has been shattered to pieces. Avis accuses Camilla of doing this, and Camilla, stunned by the disaster, is hurt and horrified by the accusation, faints.

At Camilla's suggestion, Peter enters as his exhibit a statue he had sculptured especially for her as a wedding gift. They named it "Land of Hope."

Camilla's advertising campaign and Tiny Tots broadcast was a great success, and Mr. Hoyt, having his pleasure and surprise on learning that Camilla was the author and artist who was so ably stimulating business for his company.

Peter's exhibit was awarded the Paris scholarship, and he prepares for his journey to France. The ship's departure from New York, he is on his way to his cabin when he meets Avis Werth.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XVII

Before Peter could recover from his surprise enough to speak, Avis smiled serenely and exclaimed, "Surprise, Peter!"

"Well, hello," he replied with a note of consternation in his voice. "You do have a habit of appearing at the most unexpected times and places."

"And aren't you glad to see me?" she asked in a hurt voice.

"Why, of course," he was rallying to the exigency of the moment. "As a matter of fact, was just now headed for my cabin and wondering what I was going to do with myself on this slow-going craft for a whole week. But why in the world are you travelling on a tub like this?"

"To see that you are not lonely," she replied coyly.

"That is most considerate of you," he offered gallantly.

"On, but I had a selfish reason, also. I didn't want to be lonely on another boat, you see. A week with a good travelling companion can be much shorter than five days alone."

"But I didn't know you had planned to go to Europe, now?"

"Neither did I until two days ago, and you were so kind with your own affairs that I just decided to make it a little surprise to you."

"No doubt about the surprise," he admitted, "What's your destination—Paris?"

"Oh, yes. Always Paris. I travel here and there about the continent when I am over there, but Paris is always home to me. You are still wondering why I am going. It happened this way: I was talking with Professor Drake the other day and he said that in his opinion my talent lies in portrait work, and that the very best thing I could do was to study with Monsieur Boule in Paris. In my enthusiasm, I decided to go at once, and then hit upon the idea of taking the same boat with you, just for the fun of it. If I get over there and discover that I am not prepared to stay indefinitely, I'll take a fast boat back and start all over."

"How convenient it is to have money!" he sighed, smiling. "You'll be like that some day," she said confidently. "But there is no sense in our standing here like this. I must go that Tillie gets us settled this afternoon; and then for a long, pleasant luxurious week. Do you like the water?"

"I think I do," Peter grinned, "but I've never before been out where it is so deep even as this."

She turned away then hesitated. "Shall I arrange with the dining room steward to put us at the same table?"

"Why, of course. No sense in two good friends, stranded at sea on the same boat, sitting at different tables and wishing for congenial company. Or wait, I'll arrange for it myself," he suggested on second thought. "I would look better for Avis if he sought her companionship, via tips to the steward."

"Fine!" Avis agreed, and reflected that it might be clever to arrange for the information to reach Camilla that Peter had bribed a dining room steward for a table with her. One could not imagine a man falling more neatly into her plans than Peter had from the beginning. True, it was a slow and tedious campaign, but well worth the time and patience. "See you at dinner, then," she left him gayly.

By two days' notice, Avis' trunk contained a surprising collection of stunning clothes, which might have been purchased for a definite purpose. She might have been on her honeymoon, so alluring she made her self for every day and every occasion of that voyage.

By the third day, it seemed quite natural for them to face each other across the breakfast, luncheon and dinner table; with deck games, contract bridge in the salon, dancing in the evenings or just sitting idly side by side in their deck chairs in the calm, indolent hours between activities.

Peter was seized by a spell of inertia, so easily developed aboard a steamer, and following the strain of busy days over many months—years in fact. It was the first time he had relaxed from anxiety and work for as long as he could remember. It was so blissful to stroll all around or lie in a deck chair with eyes closed and caressed by the warm salt breeze, to dream without doing and to plan without action. Avis had convinced him of the wisdom of such a week of idleness. On the second day out, he had protested when she proposed a set of deck tennis.

"But I should be working, Avis. I expected to get a lot of extra things done this week."

"Aren't you the bear for work, though? Now let me tell you what would be the sensible thing you had to do, Peter. Make this week a real vacation. Forget everything except rest and a good time and be ready to loop into Paris in full swing with new ambition. You certainly deserve one week away from your work, while at the same time it would do you a vast amount of good. You must learn to play a little." She was so anxiously concerned for his welfare that he felt a responsive desire to humor her wishes, even while he acknowledged that she probably was right about it.

It was that receptive mood induced by his complete resignation to idleness and pleasure into which Avis subtly poured her words of intrigue that sprouted and flourished into a lusty romance which promised to bud and blossom.

By the third day, Camilla and America seemed vague and remote as to time and space; and Peter was luxuriating in the charm of Avis' gentle flattery. The pleasure of her, irresponsible manner, so different from Camilla's harrising condescension to work and ambition and obligation.

Avis captivated him in this period of lassitude and pleasure as he never had done in the atmosphere of work and ambition at the studio. She was part of this life which had seemed so unattainable to him, and she made him feel that he had only to reach out his hand and grasp it. And although the Belgrade was not the epitome of luxury and service to which she was accustomed, it seemed magnificent to Peter who had had so little ease and beauty in his life.

If Camilla's ambition had inspired him and provided him confidence, Avis' holiday mood stimulated his desire to obtain what he wanted by the shortest route, to forfeit it in a pound of proud struggle for a pound of easy victory. It wasn't so much her words and actions, as her manner and the way her very thoughts willed him to her viewpoint.

There was also a full golden moon in conspiracy with wind-blown, dimly-lighted decks, in her favor. Sitting side by side, snuggled into steamer rugs, with the vastness of the heaving sea stretching about them in all directions to remind them of the insignificance of man, of the futility of waiting for life while life passed by; talking in intimate tones while the silver sheen of the moonlight and the eerie sound of the waves against the hull of the boat turned it all into a world of make-believe. Prosaic life lost its proportions of importance. It was a mood in which man tells himself that at this moment, this hour, is his to do with as he will. Why wait for the life which never may be, and remember that which is lost to time forever? The lure of the present is sweetly intoxicating as one partakes of more and more.

Flying Under Difficulties

Imperial Airways Maintain Service Over Dead Sea Area.

The difficulties of flying over wild areas are appreciated by H. K. Hales, Conservative M.P. for Hanley in Great Britain. He is an experienced traveller by air and he pays this compliment:

"I would like at this juncture to express my admiration for the marvellous organization which is shown by Imperial Airways Limited. They may be slow but they are sure. I think I am right in saying that there were more than two occasions when we did not arrive at our destination on time, a thing which greatly appreciated."

"You have to remember also that the organization of the ground forces and equipment is a great problem. In Penang they have got yet got the aerodrome in order. The ground has been laid out and levelled."

"And we must not forget the difficulties with the Persian government which have necessitated us flying down the coast of Arabia instead of Persia and have made it necessary to cover some 200 extra miles."

"Flying over the Dead Sea with a strong adverse wind, we were obliged to return to a desolate tract of country to pick up the petrol out of a tank placed there to meet such an emergency. That is another little instance of how the unexpected may happen at any moment with a full load of passengers and freight for which allowances must be made, and everything done to keep the service up to time."

Of all places in the world, the vicinity of the Dead Sea is not the spot to pick for a forced landing. It is hot in the valley, and although Jericho is only a few miles away, there is nothing there but a few Arab huts—Border Cities Star.

Origin Still Uncertain

No One Really Knows First Significance Of Swastika

Some scholars believe the Swastika is merely a decorative or ornamental design, having evolved from the lotus petal pattern used in early architecture. Some say it was merely a talisman or charm, to be worked in precious metals and worn as amulet or pendant. As a mystic symbol, it is said to have been associated through the ages with fire, water, wind and rain. There are archaeologists who hold that its four points, or feet, indicate the four cardinal points of the compass. It has been interpreted as representing a flame of sacred fire, the sun in its daily rotation and a flash of lightning. Much speculation followed its adoption as the national emblem of the German Socialist party several years ago and many articles were written about it. However, its real origin and first significance are still uncertain. The final word of the swastika comes from the findings of archaeology of Smithsonian Institution. "It is the earliest known symbol or form of the cross and is undoubtedly pre-historic. The name is Sanskrit, but the symbol itself existed long before it even had a name."

To Safeguard Drivers

Authorities May Stop Unofficial Testing Of Racing Cars

Now that the trial of Kaye Don has ended, it is stated in British racing circles that the authorities will decide to prohibit the use of racing cars and racing motorcycles on the roads out of official practice hours.

Kaye Don was sentenced by Deemster Parrant to four months' imprisonment for the manslaughter of his mechanic, Francis Taylor, while practising out of official hours for a car race.

An appeal was lodged, and after being in custody for a few hours Kaye Don was released on bail.

The authorities for many years have given a great deal of latitude to the drivers and riders from all parts of the world who come over to take part in the races.

For both the long-standing motorcycle races and the car races of the past two years there are official practice races, for which the roads are closed. In addition, a tradition has grown up that any driver or rider who wished to make additional trials could do so without any risk of serious consequences.

Little Helps For This Week

"I form the light and create darkness; I make peace and create evil: I the Lord do these things." Isaiah 45:7.

"All is God that is, and is to be; And God is good." Let this suffice us still.

Resting in childlike trust upon His will.

Who moves to His great end, unthwarted by the ill.

—J. G. Whittier.

'This then is of faith, that everything which touches us in mind, body or estate, whether brought about by this outward senseless nature or by the will of man, good or bad, is overruled to each of us by the almighty and all-loving will of God. Whatever befalls us, however it befalls us, we must receive as the will of God. If it is through man's negligence, or ill-will, or anger, still it is to us in the very least circumstance the will of God. For if the least thing could happen to us without God's permission it would be something out of God's control. His providence and love would not be what they are. Almighty God Himself would not be the same God, nor the God we believe, adore and love.—E. B. Pusey.

Uncover Roman Theatre

Walls Slowly Emerging From Ground In St. Albans, England

So many people are flocking to St. Albans, England, the Roman Verulamium, hoping to see the Roman theatre whose walls are slowly emerging from the ground that Lord Verulam, in charge of the excavations, has given orders to admit the public to the area every day between certain hours. All archaeologists agree that this theatre is the only example of its kind at present known in Britain. It follows the normal classical plan and possesses an oblong stage and a semi-circular auditorium, approached by staircases. The spade thus far has revealed nearly one-half of the theatre. From its proportions it is apparent that in its day it would have seated between 1,500 and 2,000 players. The building appears to date from the second century A.D.

Specialty-Treated Wallpaper Is Invention Of London Scientist

Heating system of novel design has been invented by a London scientist—working on the principle that the human body is always radiating heat to colder objects. He has invented a system which will raise the temperature of any room as high as that needed for human well-being. This will be done by specialty-treated wallpaper connected to the electrical system.

Can Recommend Canada

Earl Of Chichester Thinks It Fine For Young People

The Earl of Chichester, who sailed to England after spending seven months in the office of Sir William Clark, British High Commissioner, in Ottawa summed up his views of Canada before he sailed, as follows: "If I were asked by a young man just out of school, I should certainly recommend Canada, but I should also point out that he would have to work hard. Canada is undoubtedly a country for a young man, but he'll have to work."

Fire Destroys Stored Grain at High River

Mazzeppa Grain Elevator Razed By Flames; Volunteers Check Serious Blaze

HIGH RIVER, August 20.—Thirty thousand bushels of grain were destroyed at Mazzeppa on Saturday afternoon when Searle grain elevator was burned to the ground. The loss is covered by insurance. The fire started in the coal shed of the elevator and soon swept out of control, owing to lack of an adequate water supply.

Nearly farmers seeing the blaze unheeded from binders and hauled water from farm wells a mile or more away, and a C. P. R. car was pressed into service to carry water. The volunteer brigade prevented the loss of the three dwelling houses across the railway which were in grave danger, and of the Bluff and Pool elevators adjacent. Only the absence of wind frustrated much more serious destruction.

Straw stacks and small buildings nearby were burned. The roofs of the houses of the elevator managers were damaged, and furniture which had been moved out was badly burned from flying sparks.

Both the spur line and the main line of the C. P. R. suffered with twisted rails and burned ties. This necessitated quick work on the part of a special railway crew to permit the passage of the evening train. All day Sunday trucks and crews of men were employed in moving the still smouldering pile of grain.

It is understood the elevator will be rebuilt within three weeks.

SURVEY OF SOUTH WILL BE MADE VERY SHORTLY

Preparations are already under way by the responsible departments of the provincial government for complete survey of the drought-stricken sections of the province, with a view to determining at an early date what steps will be necessary to provide feed and other relief for the residents of those areas. Although nothing definite has been stated as yet, the Herald is informed that there is every likelihood of a free freight policy again being put into effect this year, which will reduce materially the expense incurred in bringing in feed or shipping out stock and effects to other areas.

Mrs. H. F. Berry Makes Tablet For Her Son's Grave

This week there was erected in Chinook cemetery a monument that will stand as a tribute from a bereaved mother to a beloved son.

Money to purchase a suitable stone to mark his last resting place not being available, this resourceful lady of 76, who moves around with the aid of crutches, set herself to the task of supplying the deficiency.

With saw, hammer and nails she made a rounded mould 2½ feet high, and into this she poured cement. A sheet of plasterboard, as a name plate, heavily lettered in black, was let into the damp mould, and protected with a shaped sheet of glass, the outer edges caught in the cement.

The "Stone", painted white was let into the damp cement curbing around the grave, and there it stands, a tribute to a mother's love and a lasting monument. Mrs. H. F. Berry celebrated her seventy-sixth birthday last March.

Alsask Fire Loss Estimated At $50,000

ALSASK, Aug. 22.—A disastrous fire started early Wednesday morning in a vacant building in the centre of the business block on the east side of town. With a light southeast wind blowing the flames soon spread, burning completely the Sask-Alta hardware, Victoria cafe, Star cafe and Grand cafe, and partly destroying E. R. S. Swalm's grocery. Origin of the fire is unknown.

The blaze was well underway before the alarm was turned in, making work by the fire brigade difficult. However, the firemen managed to save the balance of the block. The buildings were partly covered by insurance. The loss will be around $50,000.

Cannot Feed 100,000 Head of Stock in Sask.

Situation Getting Worse in Saskatchewan States Minister Of Agriculture

REGINA, Aug. 21.—Saskatchewan has 100,000 surplus cattle that cannot be fed. They cannot be fed regardless of financial arrangements that might be made with the Federal Government, because there is not the required amount of feed available.

Those startling statements were made Tuesday by Hon. J. G. Taggart, minister of agriculture.

"The situation," he added, "is getting worse every day, and all the information now coming in convinces us that our original estimates were far too low."

It was stated earlier that the Saskatchewan government was waiting a reply from Ottawa to a request for $200,000 to assist in the movement of surplus cattle from the dried-out south, and also to provide seed rye, the rye to be sown at once and used as pasturage in the fall.

SOCIALIZATION OF FINANCE IS ENDORSED U.F.A.

Edmonton Conference U.F.A. Reiterates Policy on Finance Reform

No declaration upon the merits of the Douglas system was made by the U.F.A. conference which was in session at Edmonton last week. Following a lengthy discussion on Friday, a resolution stating that "social control of finance was the first step necessary to improve economic conditions", received endorsement of the conference. Appointment of a competent body named by the State to work out details necessary for the application of monetary policies was also advocated in the resolution.

With reference to the proposed draft of a new provincial platform, members decided to hold another conference next fall while in the interval the U.F.A. executive is to continue its work.

Provincial and Federal U.F.A. members were in joint session until 1:30 a.m. on Saturday at the Parliament buildings. Much of the discussion centered on the resolution dealing with monetary policy, relief and rural education.

It was not expected that the resolution dealing with monetary policy would bring forth very lively discussion, several members expressing themselves on this question. It was shown that the U.F.A. had stood for many years for monetary reform and social control of finance. Thus, the resolution adopted was naturally a reaffirmation of the organization's stand on this question. Speakers contended that sufficient financial credit to distribute goods and services which may be produced, and which people desire to use, should be available at all times. While there was an abundance of goods, they were not available to consumers. The remedying of such a condition should be the object of any monetary policy, said the resolution.

The resolution adopted by the U.F.A. conference with regard to monetary reform follows:

"In view of the unquestioned importance of social control of finance as the first step to be taken toward the achievement of an economic condition under which the abundance of goods resulting from our producing system shall be made available to the consumers, this conference composed of the U.F.A. and U.F.W.A. executives and boards and the elected U.F.A. representatives of the Alberta legislature and dominion house of commons hereby reaffirm and declare our adherence to the financial policy already enunciated by the U.F.A. annual conventions at various times."

Government Will Aid Peace River Farmers

the serious plight of many farmers in the Peace River district who are unable to finance purchases of binder twine, with the high harvesting is about to start, will be taken up with the government at once, stated eminent guarantees.

Hon. Frank S. Grisdale, minister of agriculture, who arrived Saturday from a tour of the north country.

Mr. Grisdale said the situation also would be discussed with the bank on Monday with a view to seeing what could be done without the need of government at once, stated eminent guarantees.
